MEDIA RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE PUBLICATION

20 April 2009

Chum Creek Primary School on the move

Variety, the children's charity, and The Shane Warne Foundation – together with celebrity ambassadors – will present a 12-seater Sunshine Coach to Chum Creek Primary School tomorrow (Tuesday 21 April).

The Toyota mini bus will provide increased opportunities for students to attend events outside the immediate area, which is extremely important in the students' recovery process following the devastating Black Saturday bushfires.

Actor and comedian Glenn Robbins will present the Sunshine Coach to the school at 12pm, followed by the official opening of the school's new playground – the result of a 'Playground Blitz' conducted by Variety volunteers over the weekend.

In attendance tomorrow:

The Shane Warne Foundation:

- Glenn Robbins, TSWF board member
- Tina Tripp, TSWF general manager

Variety, the children's charity:

- Keith Potger, Variety celebrity ambassador
- Norm Hutton, Variety CEO
- Kerry Bradley, Variety programs coordinator
- Rod Collins, Variety board chairman

Chum Creek Primary School:

- students, teachers, parents and school council members
